

Use of Personal Information

We will not collect any information about individuals, except where it is specifically and knowingly provided by them.

Examples of such information are:

- Your name
- Your mobile telephone number
- Your email address
- Your occupation

The information collected will be used to send you the information you have requested and to provide information that may be useful to you.

We may share non-personal aggregate statistics (group) data about our site visitors' traffic patterns with partners or other parties.

Users subscribing for updates or wishing to access secure site content will be asked to provide personal data. This data is collected for administration purposes and to verify that the user is properly entitled to access secure site areas and the content therein.

We also collect personal data through this site in order to provide site users with the latest information relating to updates to this site, news, the company and its products and services.

By freely submitting this information to us you are consenting to the use of this data for administration and marketing purposes.

Cookies

Cookies are small amounts of data that are stored on the hard drives of visitor's machines. This site only uses cookies when users are accessing secure areas. Visitors browsing the public areas will not receive cookies generated by this site.

Cookies from this site are solely used to track user authentication and access permissions during 'Logged In' sessions. Cookies from this site are only temporary and do not contain any personal data other than username and a session identification. Cookies will be automatically deleted on 'Log Out'.